SNA Listening Sessions

SNA and No Kid Hungry are partnering to better understand how school nutrition professionals are navigating the supply chain crisis. We are gathering experts from around the country to discuss supply chain issues and share their knowledge during hour-long listening sessions.

Specifically, we are looking for participants in school districts with enrollments of:

10,000 – 24,999 Students

25,000 to 49,999 Students

50,000+ Students

School nutrition operators employed by a school district, who participate in one of the Listening Sessions are eligible to be entered into a randomized drawing to win a variety of prizes.

Your participation in these listening sessions will help us better serve school nutrition practitioners with tools and knowledge to navigate the supply chain problem as well as inform our advocacy work to make sure students get fed.
